

MUELLER® All-Cast 150™ Meter Yoke

No Solder Joints – Ideal Meter Alignment – Superior Flow

This innovation in meter yoke design assures the exact alignment of the meter swivel nuts for faster, easier meter setting. The risers are cast of strong, rigid waterworks bronze. There are no solder joints or soft copper tubing involved in its construction. Installers will no longer “find the need to flex the yoke” to facilitate meter installation – a practice that can lead to leaks or broken pipes.

The All-Cast Yoke has a larger I.D. than standard yokes to deliver superior flow and allow the meter to operate at full capacity.

Available in a height of 7 inches for any 5/8" x 3/4" meter, the All-Cast Yoke can be extended to heights of 9 inches, 12 inches, even 14 inches by adding any combination of the optional 2 inch and 5 inch adaptors.

Wide selection of meter connections

Meter inlet and outlet connections allow any type of installation desired. Choices on the inlet and/or the outlet include reduced or full-port ball valves, elbow, ground key or dual check valves in ASSE and non-ASSE approved styles. Changing types of connections is as easy as removing one and threading on another.

Adapts to any service line

Mueller multi-purpose ends allow any style of pipe or tubing connection, including the Mueller 110® or Pack Joint compression connections, Mueller Insta-Tite® “Stab” Connection, copper flare, MIP or FIP. It’s compatible with any type of tubing or pipe. A convenient bracing eye is included as an integral part of the casting.

Change meter elevation easily

If later the elevation of the meter should have to be raised, simply remove both the meter inlet and outlet fittings, thread on the appropriate length of extensions to bring the meter up to the new position, reinstall the fittings and put the meter back into place. There’s no need for a separate meter riser or to change out the yoke.
